Art Unit: 1761

1. The finality of the office action mailed May 24, 2002 is hereby withdrawn to introduce a new ground of rejection. The delay in making the rejection is regretted.

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 12-13 and 17-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by de Bruijne et al.

de Bruijne et al disclose laminated dough comprising plurality of margarine layers distributed between layers of a proofed dough product. (See columns 3-4)

The de Bruijne et al product differs from the claimed product in the way in which it is made. However, determination of patentability in product-by-process claims is based on the product itself. (See In re Thorpe 227 USPQ 964)

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

Art Unit: 1761

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
 2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
 3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
 4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.
6. Claims 14-16 and 20 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over de Bruijne et al.

The teaching of de Bruijne et al is described above. They do not teach dough comprising a plurality of puncture openings, forming into pizza shapes and the amount of ingredients as claimed.

It would have been obvious to form a plurality of puncture openings to provide for ventilation during baking. It would also have been obvious to form the dough into any desired shapes. There is no specific identity for pizza shapes. Pizza shape can be rectangular or circular; puffed pastries and Danish pastries are both rectangular and circular. The amounts of ingredients vary with the type of dough and it would have been within the skill of one in the art to determine the appropriate amounts depending on the type of dough being made.
